. Thanks. After many years using the DVB-S software in Win95, it was so difficult to find the right software to use. After buying DVB-T software from several different companies, I finally tried to find a good all-in-one solution. The guys from Connectix got it. The other guys could not get it to work. This is the only DVB-S software you need. Around the state: March 31, 2011 Thursday Mar 31, 2011 at 12:01 AM News from around the state Schools State school superintendent candidate fires up educators A state board of education candidate will be up on the dais with the state school board and educators next week. Julian Vasquez Heilig, a first-time candidate for state superintendent of education, will be among those participating in a forum at Springfield High School on Tuesday evening. The event will be televised on WGNS Channel 13. Vasquez Heilig, of Springfield, is a graduate of Springfield High School and an associate professor of educational leadership at Springfield College. He's been a state-appointed, state-paid consultant to the San Francisco Unified School District and has conducted educational research. He is opposed to reducing high-stakes testing and closing failing schools, and he supports charter schools. He also favors offering state aid to private schools. His opponent is Glen Olin, also of Springfield, who has been a state-appointed, state-paid consultant to the Newark Public Schools. For more information, visit www.vascuheilig.org, or watch the forum on Tuesday night. About 78% of Main Street Restaurant students graduate A continuing-education certificate program that allows students to get credit for restaurants was given a thumbs up Thursday by the State Board of Career and Professional Development. It's called Main Street Restaurant Training, or MSRT, and the board agreed that it provides a reasonable program that meets the needs of restaurant workers. Restaurants have a tough time retaining employees, because they require many skills, including customer service, management, wait staff and kitchen work. By getting training, restaurant workers can move on to more money-making jobs with more responsibility. The board also approved 19 new continuing-education certificates, all of which are available at Westfield Career and Technical Center. In addition, the board held a public hearing to amend the certificates for four existing programs: wireless engineering, web design and mobile app design, accounting, and 82157476af
